The FX 6 concept is part of FF's broader FX product strategy aimed at delivering Advanced Intelligent Electric Vehicles (AIEVs) to a mass-market audience. The camouflaged prototype mules will undergo further testing and validation in the U.S., ensuring that they meet FF's high standards for performance, technology, and user experience.

Once the FX 6 camouflaged prototype mules arrive in Los Angeles, the FX team will conduct extensive evaluations, including ADAS and autonomous driving validation, powertrain and performance optimization, and intelligent cabin and user experience refinement.
