especially as autonomous driving technology has already surpassed human driving at its best, which will tremendously enhance overall societal productivity."

The Jones Technology and Innovation Conference is recognized for bringing together a select group of innovative companies and institutional investors for the two-day event. The event focused on one-on-one meetings, fireside chats, panels, and networking. Organized by JonesTrading, with marketing support from B2i Digital, Inc., the event offered an opportunity for direct dialogue between senior company executives and investors seeking to engage with leadership teams.

"We are honored to have had the opportunity to participate in the Jones Conference this week in Las Vegas, which allowed us to provide FF's progress and future goals to the investment community in attendance," said Jerry Wang. "We really appreciate JonesTrading for creating an interactive forum and open discussions where companies such as FF can communicate directly with the investment community."

ABOUT FARADAY FUTURE
